The International Telework Academy has its roots in the International Telework Foundation (ITF), an independent non-profit association, which was launched in 1995. Since 1996, an international series of telework workshops has been conducted to promote academic research in this domain of telework and other new forms of work, and to encourage exchange between scholars and practitioners in the field. The academy has held a number of workshops, including the one in Argentina. These workshops have resulted in the publication of several edited books of high academic standard. The volume you have in your hands is a compilation of the best papers presented during the first event held in Argentina in August 2010.
